Pearson's Two-Hit Pitching Defeats Cincinnati 4-0

Yankees Take Two Tilt Edge Over N. L. Crew

Bucky Walters Loser As New York Hits Hard In Third

Shutout Victim

Monte Pearson's brilliant two-hit pitching was too much for the Cincinnati Reds this afternoon and the New York Yankees went two up on the National League titlists in the World Series. The score was 4 to 0.

Pearson, fanning eight, held the Reds without a safety until the eighth inning when Lombardi singled sharply to center field. Werber's single to left in the ninth was the only other hit. Werber was on base earlier by virtue of a walk.

Bucky Walters, star of the Red staff, was touched for three runs in the third and another marker in the fourth when Babe Dahlgren hit a home run, the first of the series, over the left field wall.

LONG SPEECH COMPLETED

Rights Of Neutral Ships In Seas Debated As Powers Watch

BERLIN, Oct. 5—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler visited his newest provincial capital today—shell-raked, bomb-gutted, debris-laden Warsaw, in the course of a closely guarded tour of occupied Polish areas.

Before leaving Berlin in his high-powered private airplane to inspect the latest territories to be garnered into the Greater Reich, the Fuehrer put the finishing touches to the 10,000 word speech he will deliver to the Reichstag tomorrow.

Hitler finished the text of his momentous address, in which he is expected to outline the terms of his "peace offensive" only an hour and a quarter before leaving Berlin.

Taft's suggestions for change drew from Chairman Pittman, of the senate foreign relations committee, handling the legislation, an observation.

Opposing French and German legions on the Western Front were held in check today as Chancellor Hitler's "peace offensive" gathered momentum, to be climaxed by the Fuehrer's Reichstag speech tomorrow.

Today Hitler entered Warsaw in triumphs to review his troops and signify the end of the war in the East, but the attention of the entire world remained fixed on the peace terms he is expected to put forward at noon tomorrow (6 a. m. Circleville time).

From Rome came reports that Premier Mussolini is prepared to act as a behind the scenes mediator on behalf of peace and that Italy plans to take no military initiative.

Taft Asks Credit Clause Cut from Arms Measure

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, prominently

boomed for the Republican presidential nomination and who favors the administration's neutrality act arms embargo repeal bill, believes some drastic changes should be made in the legislation before it is enacted.

Taft's suggestions for change drew from Chairman Pittman, of the senate foreign relations committee, handling the legislation, an observation.

S. COURT STREET CRASH DAMAGES NEW AUTOMOBILE

A 1940 DeSoto sedan, being driven from Columbus to a dealer in Wellston, was damaged almost beyond repair, and its driver was in the city jail Thursday after a collision at 1:30 a. m. in Court Street just south of the Norfolk & Western railroad tracks.

The car collided with a trailer-truck.

Donald Stewart, 27, of 303 Pennsylvania Avenue, Wellston, driving the car for the Wills Auto Sales, Wellston, is in the city jail under a charge of driving when intoxicated. The front end and side of the car were damaged when it collided with the truck and overturned. Stewart escaped with bruising.

The truck was driven by J. R. McDonald, of Mayfield, Mich. His helper was Donald Quinn, 942 East Fourth Street, Monroe, Mich. The four-wheel trailer was loaded with paper being transported to the American Rolling Mills Co., Ashland, Ky.

The accident report of Patrolman Carl Radcliff states that both vehicles were going south on the highway. Stewart, the report says, started to pass the truck and hit the left rear wheel of the trailer, breaking a spring on the trailer. The DeSoto driven by Stewart then overturned.

Great Britain weighed the chances of peace in the light of the statements by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax.

The latter told the House of Commons: "In Paris it became clear that the French nation is solidly behind the determination of Premier Edouard Daladier to wage war against the 'German spirit of domination,' as he phrased it. Newspapers termed his declaration before the foreign relations committee of the Chamber of Deputies as 'brilliant' and hailed the strength of his stand.

That action on the Western Front is virtually at a standstill was indicated by military communiqué No. 63: "there was intermittent artillery action on various points of the front."

RUSSIAN PLANES AND MEN CROWD FINNISH BORDER

PARIS, Oct. 5—Reports received in French government circles today stated that Soviet Russia has massed 600 airplanes and 8,000 air corps men at Kronstadt southwest of Leningrad on the Gulf of Finland to exert pressure on Finland.

The Russians are demanding peaceful occupation of certain Finnish cities on the gulf, the reports stated.

Soviet Russia also was reported to have massed 20 divisions of troops on the Estonian frontier.

(Editor's note: Soviet Russia last week closed the Neva River, which connects Finland's Lake Ladoga with the Baltic Sea.)

20 DISCUSS FIRE TRUCK TO FIGHT RURAL BLAZES

Trustees Of Six Townships In Conference With City, County Officials

DEMONSTRATION PROVIDED

More Time To Be Required For Various Districts To Discuss Plans

Twenty men representing the county, city, six townships surrounding Circleville and a fire fighting equipment firm met at the Council Chamber Wednesday evening for a general discussion of a cooperative program for a fire truck.

A fire truck from Marion Township, Franklin County, was brought to Circleville for display purposes. It attracted considerable attention when given a run on Court Street with lights flashing and the siren blowing. A large crowd of city residents in addition to the officials of the various subdivisions inspected the truck at the city building.

A truck similar to the one demonstrated would cost $9,034, L. A. McClelland, Laurelvale, a representative of the Seagraves Corporation, Columbus, informed the officials. Mr. McClelland told the officials the truck could be purchased on a plan of the six townships surrounding Circleville paying $1,200 each and the county paying $2,000. The county is included in the program as the equipment would mean protection for the County Home and Children's Home.

Three Years Provided

The subdivisions would have three years in which to pay their shares, Mr. McClelland said.

Circleville is included in the fire truck program. The truck would be kept in the city engine house, manned by city firemen and maintained by the city. It would be used for dangerous city fires.

The truck carries 300 gallons of water and 1,200 feet of hose. It is equipped with fog nozzles which make one gallon of water sprayed through these nozzles equivalent to 40 gallons thrown through the regular nozzles.

Mr. McClelland explained that a program could be worked out on the township runs for neighbors to bring cans of water to the fire.

The county and township officials held a discussion of the equipment with Mr. McClelland, Fire Chief Palmer Wise and George E. Gerhardt, county prosecutor, while council was holding a recess session.

Although the majority of trustees of the various townships favor the cooperative fire program, they said more time was desired for consideration of the plan. They explained that they wanted to discuss the program with residents of the townships.

Resolutions Considered

The trustees were given resolutions to consider for their participation in the program. Wednesday night was the first time they had figures for consideration on equipment. Although cheaper equipment may be purchased the officials said they believed a good outfit should be bought.

At present the city has no truck that can be sent on rural runs. The old pumper used for country trips is out of commission.

Among those attending the meeting were James Mowery, John Greeno and George Eltel, trustees of Circleville Township, and Harry Lane, clerk; Lorin Dudelson, Pickaway Township trustee and Donald Hildbrand, clerk; C. E. Baker and A. C. Noecker, trustees of Walnut Township, and Hugh Solt, clerk; Merrill Bowman and D. A. Marshall, Washington Township trustees; Howard Cupp, trustee of Wayne Township; Floyd Fortner and George Shook, trustees of Jackson Township, and John Keller, Ralph May and C. E. Wright, county commissioners.

COUNCIL TO BUY EQUIPMENT FOR STREET LINING

Circleville may soon own a machine for painting traffic lines on downtown streets.

Council, Wednesday authorized Leonard Morgan, acting service director, to buy one of the machines for $225 or less after receiving a letter from a Columbus firm that a used machine could be purchased for that price. Before purchasing the used machine a check will be made to determine what a new outfit would cost.

Safety Director Karl Hermann informed council it cost $95 to have the traffic lines painted on the street the last time. Council believed it would be wise to purchase one of the outfits as it would pay for itself within a few years. The machines can be used for other spray painting work.

A proud lot' there will be and for good reason. On next Tuesday, the 10th, the V.F.M. band will receive its new uniforms. These will be delivered and fitted here at the band room in the Odd Fellows' building.

Ashville—In all there are forty-four members belonging to this musical organization and an additional sixteen in the beginners' class. Each Monday evening is band practice night and the kiddies are all hard at it making ready for their engagement at the Pumpkin Show and with those new uniforms they'll not be outshone either.

The band although centering in Ashville is financed by the Circleville Veterans of Foreign Wars post.

Ashville—On October the 17th, Leroy and Mrs. Donald will in a quiet way celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. The Pythian Sisters are planning a supper and some kind of entertainment in their honor.

Ashville—Miss Leonora Signoretti of Cleveland, a former school friend of Mrs. Kenneth Holtrey, came Wednesday to be the guest of the Holtreys in Walnut Township for a short time. This is her first experience as a visitor to the country and farm and thinks it just fine.

Ashville—Two new mayoralty candidates, both boys, came to town Wednesday and to the homes of Dan and Mrs. Boone and Glyn and Mrs. Hoover. In slightly more than forty years, a whole week's big doings will be held here celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of Ashville as a village and one of these two boys may be mayor when this big event is held. Of course there are dozens of fine youngsters out at school now who may want to be the "big boy" when this big event is held.

Ashville—Sam Hummel, 85 years young now soon, who built several hundred fine corn shocks during the cutting season, is out now every day husking it and nary ribbon of husk is left on the golden pile to mark its loots.

Ashville—Charles Trone, Jr., who removed to Ashville several weeks ago from Columbus where he manufactured a line of doughnuts, is now doing some work in the same line here.

Ashville—Ray Kuhlwein's new son along with his mother will come from White Cross Hospital to Ashville and home Friday. If any village any place can show a finer line of youngsters and more of 'em, from one day to two years of age, than Ashville, we, all of us, would like to hear about it. All these new houses are not all just for looks.

AT THE CLIFTONA
Unquestionably unique in treatment and in theme, Columbia's "Golden Boy" opens Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre to prove that Hollywood, when it wants to, can turn out definitely superior entertainment. The new film, directed by Rouben Mamoulian and starring Barbara Stanwyck, Adolphe Menjou and William Holden is based upon Clifford Odets' romantic drama.

"Golden Boy" tells of a young violinist, impatient and tired of working toward the day when he will be a success on the concert stage, who rapidly fights his way to the top in the prize-ring. In his swift climb to pugilistic stardom, he ruthlessly tramples upon the hopes of his music-loving father, ignores the cryings-out of his own conscience. He becomes brutalized by his new environment, until his love for a disillusioned young woman—the only person who really understands the tremendous conflict raging within him—causes him to give up the ring and return to the forgiveness of his family.

SUPREME COURT RULES 'RIPPER' BALLOT IN OHIO

Petitions Asking Vote On Major G. O. P. Action Win Approval

MITCHELL LOSES OFFICE

Names Sent To Counties For Consideration By Election Boards

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—Complying with an error of the state supreme court, Secretary of State Earl Griffith today sent to county election boards Democratic-sponsored petitions which proposed a referendum on the Republican backed Civil Service "Ripper Bill."

In a ruling which dealt a staggering blow to the administration, the high tribunal held that Civil Service Commissioner Herbert Mitchell, Belmont County attorney, was in office illegally and, in effect, that Griffith, in preemptorily rejecting the petitions, acted beyond his scope.

Immediately on notification of the court ruling, Griffith sent the petitions with their 146,140 signatures to the 88 counties with instructions to determine their sufficiency and return them by Oct. 9. If enough signatures are valid, the referendum vote will be held by Nov. 7. Supplemental petitions containing approximately 14,000 signatures were sent along too. They will be held separate, however, unless needed to make the 141,288 demanded for a referendum.

Limbach Comments
Commenting on the decision, State Democratic Chairman Arthur L. Limbach said:

"The court spoke clearly as before. The Secretary of State knew about the Brown case and can read. I say again, his action in declaring the referendum petitions insufficient was arbitrary. It was a high-handed effort to prevent the people from voting on this important civil service question. His conduct in that regard was, and is, inexcusable."

The Brown case, referred to by Limbach, presented a similar question and in that instance the high court returned a similar verdict.

The jurors split, 4 to 3, on the question which was broached in the form of a friendly suit filed by Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert to determine the validity of Mitchell's appointment. Gov. John W. Bricker appointed Mitchell on Sept. 18 after Griffith rejected the petitions and the new law, providing for a three member commission, apparently took effect.

Sustaining Mitchell's ouster were Judges Weygandt, Zimmerman, Williams and Myers. Dissenting were Judges Day, Matthias and Hart. Judge Williams was the only Republican on the majority side. Those who dissented are Republicans.

Written By Weygandt
Chief Justice Weygandt wrote the majority opinion. It held that the general code required the Secretary of State to forward referendum petitions to election boards when sufficient signatures had been obtained.

The opinion, however, upheld Griffith's right to remove from the petitions 207 signatures which were not verified with an affidavit. Griffith threw out the 207 plus 7,082 others he thought were not duly qualified. The Democrats originally filed 146,347 names. Subtracting 207 left the balance well above the number required by law. Deduction of the other 7,082 placed the total under the 141,288 requirement.

The dissenting opinion, written by Judge Day, read in part:

"Under provisions of the constitution, the Secretary of State cannot be regarded as a mere automaton and as such required to accept and treat as valid every so-called referendum with question and without respect to its obvious invalidity."

The dissenters claimed that petitions, before being transmitted to election boards, must have on "their face" the required number of signatures. It was on that theory that Griffith acted as he did.

Judge Weygandt and his colleagues disagreed with the Secretary's right to determine sufficiency on "face value" and called previous decisions to substantiate their beliefs.

Eagerly awaited by the Republicans, the decision was the first major setback they have suffered since Bricker took the oath of office in January. Other so-called "Ripper Bills" were steamrollered through the legislature and became law without question.

Mitchell's ouster does not necessarily mean that the commission will continue permanently on a two-person basis. If county boards determine that there are not enough valid signatures, no referendum will be held and the governor can reappoint Mitchell. But if enough signatures are valid, his fate will remain in doubt until after the election.

Pittman in Action in Senate

PRESENTING the administration's stand, urging repeal of the arms embargo provisions of the neutrality act, Senator Key Pittman (D) of Nevada, chairman of the foreign relations committee, is caught by the camera in Washington. The neutrality issue is being debated in the senate daily before packed galleries.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

country, Butler from Minnesota and Murphy from Michigan. Only difficulty is that Murphy is so engrossed with his Justice Department job that he might not take a Court appointment... Congressman Tom Hennings of Missouri came back from a trip to the West Coast recently reporting sentiment increasingly strong for a third term. Young William Jennings Bryan told Hemmings in California that the State was 3 to 2 for Roosevelt... High officials will tell you privately that the British Empire is on the toughest spot in its long and sometimes precarious propagandist.

NO PROPAGANDIST

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was exremely indignant when he learned that isolationist elements were using his neutrality broadcast to put pressure on Congress against repeal of the arms embargo.

"I don't want to get mixed up in any political controversy," the flyer protested to intimates. "I didn't take any stand on the embargo in my speech. Why are these people trying to use me for their own ends? I am interested only in keeping our country out of war. It is extremely unfortunate that my remarks are being interpreted otherwise."

This isn't the first time Lindbergh has been exploited for propaganda purposes by individuals with an axe to grind. In 1927, shortly after his historic flight to Paris, a women's organization tried to use him to boost an anti-tobacco campaign. They sent out circulars exhorting

American youth to "follow Lindy's example and abstain from smoking cigarettes."

Lindbergh hit the ceiling when he heard about it. "I won't be played for either a sucker or a saint," he told friends. "I'm going to smoke a cigarette tonight and I don't care what they say about it."

Sure enough, that night, at a banquet in his honor in Cincinnati, he ostentatiously pulled out a package of cigarettes and lit up. That was the end of the scheme to use him as an anti-tobacco propagandist.

POLITICAL DOLLARS

Remarkable Warren Pierson, explaining his $13,000,000 Export-Import Bank credit to Fascist Spain which has been severely criticized as an aid to Franco: "We can't be political in making these loans."

Next day, State Department officials attending the Pan-American Conference in Panama let it be known that two Export-Import Bank loans would be given to Bolivia and Colombia purely for political reasons.

And it's just like mere men to go around laughing at and criticizing women's styles when he, himself, is unable to explain what utilitarian function is performed by the cuff at the bottom of his trousers.

LAUGHTON VS. McCARTHY

Charles Laughton, eminent character actor of stage and screen, has long claimed he had a weakness for comedy roles and just to prove it he agreed to match his wit with that of Charlie McCarthy next Sunday, October 8. Also present for the evening's entertainment will be Barbara Jo Allen as the comical Vera Vague.

The broadcast over the NBC red network at 8 p. m. regularly features the combined talents of Nelson Eddy, Don Ameche, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Dorothy Lamour and Robert Armstrong's orchestra.

Rarely finding time for microphone work, this will only be Charles Laughton's fourth radio appearance. In addition to his attempt to splinter McCarthy verbally, Mr. Laughton will do a preview scene from his as yet unreleased movie, "Jamaica Inn."

DUNNE AND NIVEN

"The Sisters," a best-selling novel made into a movie, is translated to the medium of radio by the Radio Theatre on Monday, October 9, with Irene Dunne and David Niven in the principal roles. The Cecil B. DeMille production will be heard over the Columbia network at 9 p. m.

IN VARIOUS ROLES

A De Maupassant story, "In Various Roles," will be dramatized as another in the series of "The World's Greatest Stories" on "Johnny Presents" over the NBC-Red Network Tuesday, Oct. 10 at 8 p. m. It is adapted by Max Marcin and will be under the direction of Jack Johnstone. Musically the program spotlights Johnny Green's orchestra with a college medley. Included are Penn's famous "The Red and the Blue," Columbia's "San Souci," and "Bow Down to Washington." Vocalists are the Swing Fourteen and Genevieve Rowe. Johnny the Call Boy acts as master of ceremonies.

RADIO NOTES

An original orchestral adaptation by Frank Black of Rachmaninoff's Prelude in G Minor will be heard for the first time on the maestro's Friday night concert program over the NBC-Red network Oct. 6 at 8 p. m. Black will also conduct the orchestra in Scott's "Lento," the Grand March from Verdi's "Aida" and Spanish Dance No. 1 from De Falla's "La Vida Breve."

Ben Bernie, the ole maestro, and all the lads return to the airwaves

Sunday, Oct. 8 at 5:30 p. m., over CBS with Lew "Drizzlepuss" Lehr, Buddy Clark, Mary Small and Col. Manny Prager. Musical numbers include "Comes Love," "An Apple for the Teacher," "Beer Barrel Polka" and "Go Fly Kite," with Mary Small singing "Over the Rainbow." Buddy Clark singing "Day In, Day Out," and the Bernie "family group" offering a cut-up called "I'm Sorry For Myself" with the whole gang in there swinging.

The late Sidney Howard's hit play, "Yellow Jack" serves as the vehicle to introduce the Group Theatre Players on the Kate Smith Hour when the program starts its new series over CBS Friday, Oct. 6.

When Joe Louis appeared on "We, the People" during its airing from Chicago recently, his managers were so pleased with the way he was handled that they sent a wire saying that they would be glad to have Joe appear on the series any time he was wanted.

When Ezra Stone's "Aldrich Family" starts on the NBC-Blue network Tuesday, Oct. 10, his supporting cast will again consist of House Jamison and Katherine Raft as Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich and Ann Lincoln as Henry's sister Mary.

Frank Luther, of the team of Luther and Layman, has written a tune which promises to equal the popularity of his "Barnacle Bill the Sailor."

Johnny Green, maestro of the

"Johnny Presents" programs, received more than five hundred letters from fans suggesting a name for his new baby girl. The name selected was Babette.

SUPREME COURT RULES 'RIPPER' BALLOT IN OHIO

Petitions Asking Vote On Major G. O. P. Action Win Approval

MITCHELL LOSES OFFICE

Names Sent To Counties For Consideration By Election Boards

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—Complying with an error of the state supreme court, Secretary of State Earl Griffith today sent to county election boards Democratic-sponsored petitions which proposed a referendum on the Republican backed Civil Service "Ripper Bill."

In a ruling which dealt a staggering blow to the administration, the high tribunal held that Civil Service Commissioner Herbert Mitchell, Belmont County attorney, was in office illegally and, in effect, that Griffith, in peremptorily rejecting the petitions, acted beyond his scope.

Immediately on notification of the court ruling, Griffith sent the petitions with their 146,140 signatures to the 88 counties with instructions to determine their sufficiency and return them by Oct. 9. If enough signatures are valid, the referendum vote will be held by Nov. 7. Supplemental petitions containing approximately 14,000 signatures were sent along too. They will be held separate, however, unless needed to make the 141,288 demanded for a referendum.

Limbach Comments

Commenting on the decision, State Democratic Chairman Arthur L. Limbach said:

"The court spoke clearly as before. The Secretary of State knew about the Brown case and can read. I say again, his action in declaring the referendum petitions insufficient was arbitrary. It was a high-handed effort to prevent the people from voting on this important civil service question. His conduct in that regard was, and is, inexcusable."

The Brown case, referred to by Limbach, presented a similar question and in that instance the high court returned a similar verdict.

The jurors split, 4 to 3, on the question which was broached in the form of a friendly suit filed by Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert to determine the validity of Mitchell's appointment. Gov. John W. Bricker appointed Mitchell on Sept. 18 after Griffith rejected the petitions and the new law, providing for a three member commission, apparently took effect.

Sustaining Mitchell's ouster were Judges Weygandt, Zimmerman, Williams and Myers. Dissenting were Judges Day, Matthias and Hart. Judge Williams was the only Republican on the majority side. Those who dissented are Republicans.

Written By Weygandt
Chief Justice Weygandt wrote the majority opinion. It held that the general code required the Secretary of State to forward referendum petitions to election boards when sufficient signatures had been obtained.

The opinion, however, upheld Griffith's right to remove from the petitions 207 signatures which were not verified with an affidavit. Griffith threw out the 207 plus 7,082 others he thought were not duly qualified. The Democrats originally filed 146,347 names. Subtracting 207 left the balance well above the number required by law. Deduction of the other 7,082 placed the total under the 141,288 requirement.

The dissenting opinion, written by Judge Day, read in part:

"Under provisions of the constitution, the Secretary of State cannot be regarded as a mere automaton and as such required to accept and treat as valid every so-called referendum with question and without respect to its obvious invalidity."

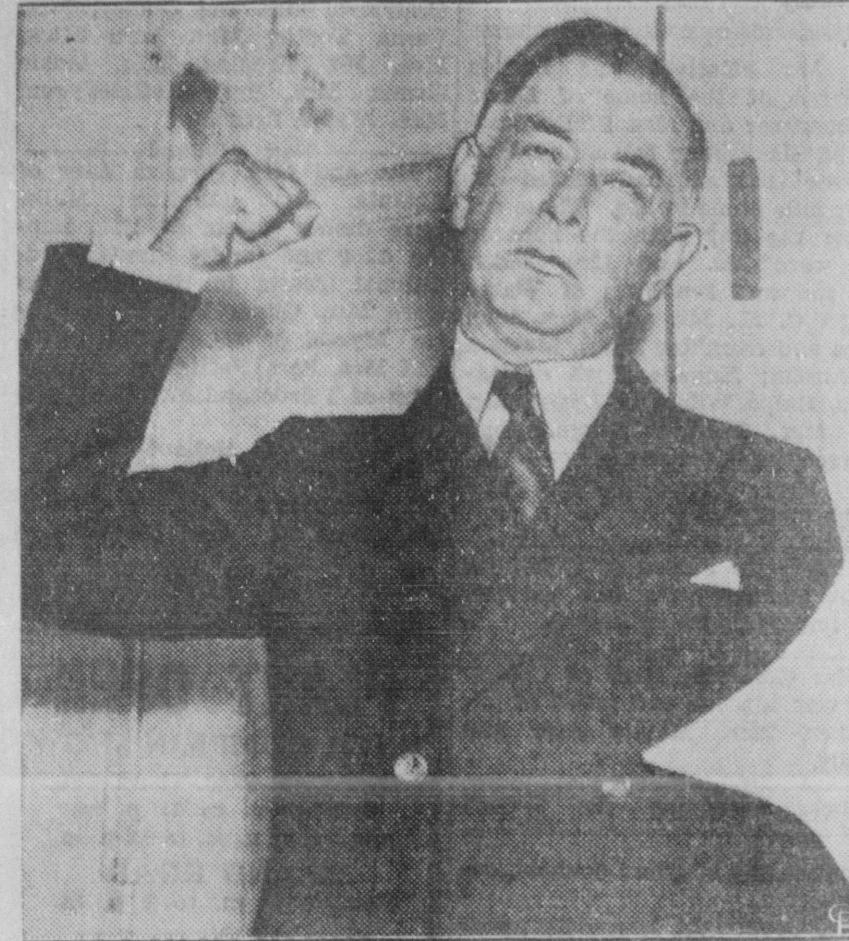

The dissenters claimed that petitions, before being transmitted to election boards, must have on "their face" the required number of signatures. It was on that theory that Griffith acted as he did.

Judge Weygandt and his colleagues disagreed with the Secretary's right to determine sufficiency on "face value" and recalled previous decisions to substantiate their beliefs.

Eagerly awaited by the Republicans, the decision was the first major setback they have suffered since Bricker took the oath of office in January. Other so-called "Ripper Bills" were steamrollered through the legislature and became law without question.

Mitchell's ouster does not necessarily mean that the commission will continue permanently on a two-person basis. If county boards determine that there are not enough valid signatures, no referendum will be held and the governor can reappoint Mitchell. But if enough signatures are valid, his fate will remain in doubt until after the election.

Pittman in Action in Senate

American youth to "follow Lindy's example and abstain from smoking cigarettes."

Lindbergh hit the ceiling when he heard about it. "I won't be played for either a sucker or a saint," he told friends. "I'm going to smoke a cigarette tonight and I don't care what they say about it."

Sure enough, that night, at a banquet in his honor in Cincinnati, he ostentatiously pulled out a package of cigarettes and lit up. That was the end of the scheme to use him as an anti-tobacco propagandist.

NO PROPAGANDIST
Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was exremely indignant when he learned that isolationist elements were using his neutrality broadcast to put pressure on Congress against repeal of the arms embargo.

"I don't want to get mixed up in any political controversy, the flyer protested to intimates. "I didn't take any stand on the embargo in my speech. Why are these people trying to use me for their own ends? I am interested only in keeping our country out of war. It is extremely unfortunate that my remarks are being interpreted otherwise."

This isn't the first time Lindbergh has been exploited for propaganda purposes by individuals with an axe to grind. In 1927, shortly after his historic flight to Paris, a women's organization tried to use him to boost an anti-tobacco campaign. They sent out circulars exhorting

HOW TO KEEP OUT

IS there any magic formula, any sure way, to "keep America out of war?"

Probably not. We thought we had the secret in the last war, and were determined to remain neutral, and even had a national election-referendum to clinch it.

Then almost overnight we, people and government both, plumped into it—of our own volition.

A great argument is raging now over the question of arms embargo. One side maintains that a continuance of the embargo will keep us out of war and the other side maintains, just as strongly, that it will pull us in.

It is unlikely that the problem depends on any act of legislation or any special government policy. It depends on people.

The way to keep out of war, if there is any way, is for the American people—for you and me and the neighbors and the people in the next town and the next state and all over—to adopt and persist in a resolute determination to keep out. It is a matter of personal choice and will, persisted in until the attitude becomes second nature.

AMERICAN "BLACKOUTS"

YES, we have our "blackouts" in this country. But how different from those of Europe, which deliberately blot out the lights of great cities at night to foil a bombing foe!

Ours are peaceful, reassuring and prosperous. They come from the smoke of industry. The columns rising from thousands of furnaces, mills and factories are banners of prosperity. The resulting soot, it must be admitted, is less beautiful than snow; but for a while, at least, people will not complain about it.

To a traveler, it is a grand sight to see a city like Pittsburgh or Detroit or Birmingham looming up in the distance as a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night, leading to a Promised Land of prosperity.

CIVIC INEFFICIENCY

IN a city which has a dispute between the street railway company and the city administration, a stalemate has been reached which seems to many observers chiefly political and not at all necessary.
A large industrial concern in the community recently paid for a full page advertisement in a local newspaper to urge both sides to drop their squabbling and get down to business. It reminded them that no one was gaining by the present delay, that many stood to lose.

"In every city where franchise trouble has developed," it pointed out, "the way out has been found. It will be found here.
The only question is how much time must be wasted in the process and how long the people must be denied modern transportation—the advantages of which are admitted on all sides."

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

SHIPPER REFUSES GOODS

WASHINGTON—Officials don't want anything said about it, but the British black list is casting an ominous shadow over American shipping. One American shipping firm event went to the extent of at first refusing a shipment for a Brazilian company because the goods were on the British black list and therefore dangerous.

It will be recalled that it was the British black list which caused so many complications with the United States during the last war. Companies suspected of trading with the enemy were listed by the British, and any goods consigned to them were promptly seized on the high seas or anywhere else that the British Navy could lay hands on them.

The new British black list was published last week. Shortly thereafter, Moore and McCormack, chief steamship operators between the United States and the east coast of Latin America, refused to accept a shipment from the Brazilian firm of Wille and Company because it was on the British black list. The latter company is run by a Brazilian of German origin, but the goods were consigned to New York, not to Germany.

U. S. Commerce Department officials were outraged that an American steamship company should bar a Brazilian shipment merely because of British frowns.
What pressure they exerted is not known, but Moore and McCormack later changed its mind and accepted the shipment.

GENERAL JOHNSON'S RELATIVE

When John Carmody was appointed boss of the new Public Works set-up (now including Public Roads, U. S. Housing, etc., as well as the old PWA), one of his first journalistic pannings came from General Hugh Johnson. As usual, the General was violent and aciduous.

A month or so later, after Carmody took the oath of office, the brother-in-law of General Johnson, Major Covington G.
Kilbourne, was eased out of his job. He was given an indefinite furlough despite the pleas of Secretary Ickes' friends that Kilbourne was an efficient engineer and that there was absolutely no politics mixed up in his appointment.

NOTE—Ickes, who appointed Kilbourne under the old PWA, has been called "Howling Harold" by General
Johnson, plus various other choice epithets, but never dropped Johnson's brother-in-law.

Shadow Over Hill House

By ELLIOTT FILLION
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

SYNOPSIS

Guests at Hill House, a New England summer resort, are amazed when Dr. Paul Rutherford tells them that his wife, Mrs. Peake, is a poisoner. She has a small drink of whisky he thinks was intended for him. Among them are Sally Gordon, spending her first vacation at Hill House; her fiancé, Tom Duncan, and her fiance, Duncan; Dr. Paul's sister, Pauline; Coral Easton, Bruce Orton, Joseph Barron, and Dr. Neal Orton, wife of Josie Peake, the daughter of Mrs. Peake, the proprietor. There has been some talk about "the spite fence," erected by Mrs. Peake's estranged husband, Misses Ivy and Tom, who is a recent prowler heard by some of the guests. Dr. Paul and Dr. Neal try to discover who poison the whisky. Misses Ivy and Tom are the latest guests to start for the beach. Then Josie has an altercation with her brother, Neal, over her friendship with Alan Murray, whose mother is Josie's friend. Josie has a run-in with Coral Easton, who is determined to marry in Sally that she needs a friend.

CHAPTER TWELVE

JOSIE BARELY waited for me to say I was her friend before she began:

"It's a long story and I'll have to go back years ago so that you will understand. Do you mind?"

"Not at all. I'm interested."

"Twenty years ago Captain Newcomb owned this house. It had been in the Newcomb family for over a hundred years, and Captain Bill, his son, Young Captain Bill as he was called, and his two daughters, mother and Miss Ivy, lived here. Captain Bill owned the land next door where Miss Ivy's cottage is, and several other lots on top of this hill. He made no secret of what he intended to do with his property. This house was to go to young Captain Bill, who ran a freighter on South American ports. Mother and Miss Ivy each were to receive a large plot of land and money enough to build them each a house, for Captain Bill's favorite saying was that no one house was big enough to hold two women with equal authority unless there was a man to rule them.

"His plans didn't go through. A letter came from Young Captain Bill that he had married Dolores Estes, a Brazilian. And before Captain Bill had time to become reconciled to that, a letter came from Young Captain Bill's widow that he had died very suddenly of fever. Mother has told me that Captain Bill never smiled after the news of his son's death was received. He didn't live very long after that and when his will was read this house was left to mother while the lot next door was left to Miss Ivy. A sum of money to build a house exactly like this one had already been paid to a builder, and Miss Ivy was to move from this house to the cottage as soon as it was completed.

"That is what started all the trouble. Miss Ivy was furious that her father should have left this house to her sister, even if she was older, instead of to her. She based her claim on the fact that she looked like all the Newcombs, tall and thin, while mother, short and fat, was an exact duplicate of her own mother. But there wasn't anything she could do about it, so she moved.

"Mother told me she even considered offering to swap houses, but the executor told her that was prohibited by the terms of the will.

"I can't go against Neal," she cried wildly. "He's always been the grandest brother until lately, but I can't give up Alan either. You saw how he acted this morning just because I walked up the beach with Alan. Though he did tell Coral to mind her own business," she finished triumphantly.

"Is Alan in a position to take care of you if you should get married?" I asked.

"Yes." The brown head came proudly erect. "He owns all those cranberry bogs down there, or rather he and his mother together. He's connected, too, with a publisher's firm in Boston."

"So that explains the urge to write stories," I said to myself.

"Well, we all do. I tried it once myself. And maybe she'll win out."

"But of my thoughts I didn't say one word."

"Go on," I said aloud. "I don't see that you've told me anything so terrible yet. With your mother back of you, why worry about what Neal says or does? He'll come around in time."

"Oh, you haven't heard half of it yet," she flung at me.

"Well, there's the last paper strangled out. So I'll sit down while you go on with your story."

"Neal met Paul Rutherford while he was away at school. They've remodeling this house than she was when mother married dad. She's been great pals. Last summer when they were here, I really thought Neal and Pauline were going to make a match. But last winter he met Coral Easton. Ever since then everything has gone wrong. He's grown cranky and cross, he's always telling me to do this or not to do that because Coral does or does not do it. And I don't think she's any example to follow, do you?"

"No, I don't," I replied firmly. "I don't care for her type at all. And I can't believe that she really cares for Neal, either, or she wouldn't have Joseph Barry hanging around her as she does."

"Mother and I have told him the same thing, but he won't listen. He declares that Coral is so attractive that she would naturally have a great many admirers and that until he can marry her he won't tie her down to just him alone."

"If she cared for Neal, she wouldn't want any other admirers, regardless of how attractive she is," I snapped indignantly.

"We've made a lot of money with this place. More than you would think possible, and two years after father died we got a very good price for some land he owned. That is how Neal and I have been able to go away to school."

"Last month Neal asked mother to advance him some money on a long-term note so that he and Coral could be married immediately. Mother refused. She told him that she didn't approve of Coral. That no young man should borrow money to get married on, for it puts him in a hole to start with."

"I can't go against Neal," she cried wildly. "He's always been the grandest brother until lately, but I can't give up Alan either. You saw how he acted this morning just because I walked up the beach with Alan. Though he did tell Coral to mind her own business," she finished triumphantly.

DIET AND HEALTH

Can't We Reconcile Opinions on Teeth?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TWO OPINIONS have been advanced as to the reason for decay of teeth.

The old one, of course, is well known. Our mothers and grandmothers taught us that we should brush our teeth twice a day; this ordinary form of cleanliness was supposed to prevent germs from attacking the surface of the teeth.

HOW TO KEEP OUT

Is there any magic formula, any sure way, to "keep America out of war?" Probably not. We thought we had the secret in the last war, and were determined to remain neutral, and even had a national election-referendum to clinch it. Then almost overnight we, people and government both, plumped into it—of our own volition.

A great argument is raging now over the question of arms embargo. One side maintains that a continuance of the embargo will keep us out of war and the other side maintains, just as strongly, that it will pull us in.

in connection with the Pumpkin Show. Wanted to know all about the rules, but there are few rules. Folk just get up on the platform and dance to one of the finest square dance orchestras in the state. Each of the first three nights a group of the best dancers will be chosen. Saturday night they enter in the finals and prizes will be awarded, cash prizes, to the best man dancer and the best woman dancer. Prizes also go to the best fiddler and the best caller. I enjoy watching square dances and expect to be a nightly spectator at the event.

In the afternoon did listen in on the Reds-Yanks game and was much disappointed that the Rhinelander did not register victory. Derringer's pitching and the Reds play afied was good enough to win almost any ball game, but the Yanks registered. Well, maybe the story will be different in the second tilt. At least I hope so, for I would like to see that world championship flag flying in Ohio.

FUEHRER VIEWS WARSAW, ONCE PROUD CAPITAL

Debris Cleared From City Streets To Permit Nazi Party To Pass

(Continued from Page One) tion and through streets from which the debris had been cleared away only sufficiently to enable his motor cavalcade to pass through.

Strictly guarded every step of the way, Hitler took time to confer with the commanding officers who led the onslaught against Warsaw and who still have the city under military control.

He crossed the Vistula river and looked at the suburb of Praga, where some of the heaviest fighting took place, but it was considered doubtful that he would go fifty miles further eastward to inspect the new Russian line formed there.

Meanwhile, as speculation ran high over the possible tenor of Hitler's speech, international difficulties over the rights of neutral shipping occupied attention in Berlin.

Up to Britain?

Germany, while advising neutrals to avoid zigzag courses, the use of convoys, the shielding of lights and other measures laying their vessels open to suspicion, made clear that her high seas activities would be governed by those of England.

In other words, it will be a case of "tit for tat." Germany will not search food-laden ships for contraband if Britain does not search them. Germany's real intention is to do all in her power to blockade England to the same extent as Britain blockades Germany.

There were indications in Berlin today that British troops have now taken up a number of "minor positions" in the West. Germans at one Rhine river bridge found a message that had been rolled into a ball and bowled across the bridge from France. It read:

"You can fire on pill boxes 6 and 7. The British are there."

Hitler will return to Berlin tonight.

BRUNNER URGED TO UNITE DEMS THROUGH STATE

MANSFIELD, Oct. 5 — Political leaders today pondered a suggestion that Henry G. Brunner, of Mansfield, be given the job of "uniting" the Democratic party in Ohio.

The proposal was made indirectly by Prof. Stuart MacGowan, of Kenyon College, in a talk before Democratic women. MacGowan said Brunner was the "only man who can unite the Democratic party in Ohio." He added that without harmony the party could not hope to win an election.

ELIZABETH LEIST DIES AT 79; RITES TO BE SATURDAY

Miss Elizabeth Leist, 79, a lifelong resident of Washington Township, died Thursday at 8 a. m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Leist, Washington Township. She had been ill for two weeks, complications causing death.

Miss Leist was born January 9, 1860, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Butler of Circleville, and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral will be Saturday at 10 a. m. at the Fred Leist home, with burial in Forest cemetery by the Mader Funeral Service. Friends may view the body at the Fred Leist home after noon Friday.

Forest rangers said it was blinded by the lights of the machine and leaped wildly.

ROTARIANS ENJOY TALK BY YOUNG OHIO EDITOR

Rotarians enjoyed an interesting program Thursday noon with Ira Gossett Hawk, 12, of Lynchburg, youngest newspaper editor in Ohio, as the speaker.

The youth, an infantile paralysis victim, related that 26 months ago when on a trip in the east he became ill. Nineteen months ago, tiring of doing nothing, he started publishing his newspaper "The Salem Echo" as a pastime. His pastime has developed into a real business which he expects to continue. He has 600 subscribers to his paper in 24 states. There are also subscribers in Canada and England.

Will Nazis Attack Here?

REPORTS from Europe indicate heavy reinforcements of German garrisons along the upper Rhine River, thus leading observers to wonder if Germany plans an attack against northeastern Alsace. If the Nazis strike through this area, they would cross that part of Alsace lying between Mulhouse and the Swiss frontier, which forms the threshold of the great Burgundian gate. For centuries this has been the pathway of armies invading France from the east.

dictated that any peace proposals received would be given serious consideration.

The powerful conservative "committee of 1922" immediately went into a secret meeting to determine from the words of the prime minister and foreign secretary exactly under what conditions England would consent to peace with the Reich.

Warships in South

Reports reaching Buenos Aires that German warships are patrolling the waters off the Argentine coast, especially since the sinking of the British freighter Clement off the Brazilian coast by a German raider—possibly the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer—aroused speculation as to whether the Argentine government would initiate some diplomatic action.

At the inter-American neutrality conference at Panama City, the 21 American republics approved a proposal to establish a "neutrality zone" around the Americas below the United States-Canadian border, with the belligerents in the European war barred from hostile acts in that zone.

"Why not substitute a provision placing all of Europe out of bounds for American shipping? I don't think we should let ships go to Holland and Belgium and at the same time prevent them going to belligerent possessions far out of the war zone."

"The President should declare a war zone everywhere in Europe but Portugal and our ships should go to Portugal. Where would the submarines go?"

"And why should our ships stay out of perfectly safe ports in peaceful Atlantic spots just because it is unsafe to go to European ports of belligerents—with our boats attempting to carry cargoes at the same time to neutral ports definitely within the war zone?"

In Washington the senate's historic debate on repeal of the arms embargo went forward following the clash between Senator Arthur Vandenberg, (R) of Michigan and Senator Tom Connally, (D) of Texas. Senator Tobey of New Hampshire was scheduled to be heard from today, with Senators Schwellenbach of Washington, Taft of Ohio, Overton of Louisiana and Downey of California listed as early speakers.

ACCUSED KILLER SHOOTS DAYTON POLICE OFFICER

DAYTON, Oct. 5 — Detective Sgt. Lucius J. Rice, 63, Negro, died in a hospital today of abdominal wounds received Saturday night in a gun battle with Eugene Harris, 24, Negro, accused of slaying Scott Conner, 36, a few hours earlier.

Detective Fred Smith, also wounded in the gun battle, was reported recovering. Rice was the first Dayton policeman to die in line of duty since 1928. He was a veteran of 30 years service.

City and county officials conferred on charges to be filed against Harris. They said he was a fugitive from Alabama, where he was under life sentence.

TWO DIVORCE PETITIONS PUT ON FILE IN COURT

Two divorce cases were filed Wednesday in Common Pleas Court.

George E. Cook, 159 East Mill Street, asks a divorce from Erma Cook charging neglect of duty and cruelty. The petition asks that the defendant be allowed no alimony. They were married in Covington, Ky., December 23, 1937.

Mrs. Nannie F. Fissell filed suit for divorce against F. H. Fissell, East Franklin Street, charging cruelty and neglect of duty. Mrs. Fissell asks that her former name of Greenlee be restored. The petition says they were married August 27, 1936 in Greenup, Ky.

EXTRAORDINARY SESSION

If this special session turns out to be a long one it is expected that other legislation, besides the Neutrality Act, will be considered. Out side of the bills now in committee and ready to be reported out, 41 Senate calendar measures are awaiting action. The House calendars now contain 124 bills and resolutions.

WPA APPROPRIATION ACT

—Of this legislation one of the major bills is the revision of the WPA appropriation act requiring that persons who have been on the rolls for 18 months or longer, shall be laid off for 30 days and may be reinstated only after being able to prove that a need exists.

DUPLICATE MEASURES

Some of these measures are practically duplicates. For instance, there are two legislative proposals on the House calendar authorizing an additional appropriation for the New York World Fair. The only difference being in the sum.

CONFERENCE COMMITTEES

—Four bills which have passed by the Senate and House in their forms are in the hands of Conference committees. The Omnibus transportation bill is the most important one. The others are to improve the civil service status of letter carriers, to amend the Bonneville Dam Act, and to change the Navy promotion board. There isn't much controversy over any of these except the Omnibus transportation bill.

ADDITIONAL BILLS

The Senate approved bill to forbid block booking of motion pictures is now before The House Interstate Commerce Committee. The Senate calendar has a bill preventing the use of spies and the acquiring of munitions by business firms in labor disputes, a bill establishing a circuit court of appeals, for patents, and a number of bills affecting aliens.

BUSINESS IMPROVES

The Secretary of Commerce announced a consistent increase in retail sales for the first eight months of this year with reports from 21,562 independent stores in 22 states showing a 7 percent gain in sales during August over the corresponding month in 1938. A 7 percent gain during the "war core" days of August was also recorded over retail sales for July of this year. The dollar value of sales as reported by the 21,562 firms for August was $317,740 as compared with $203,541,734 in August, 1938, and $203,039,410 in July, 1939. Largest gains were reported by selective groups of independent retail stores in Ohio, Georgia, Alabama, and Indiana. A 13 percent increase was reported by Ohio firms, 13 percent by Georgia stores and 11 percent by both Alabama and Indiana. Closely following these four states were Missouri, with a gain of approximately 11 percent; Illinois, 9.5 percent; and Florida and Arkansas with 9 percent, respectively. Pennsylvania led all eastern states reporting with a gain of 8 percent over August, 1938. Massachusetts reported an increase in sales of 4 percent. In the Rocky Mountain region Idaho topped the list with a 5 percent gain, closely followed by Montana with 4.5 percent and Nevada with 4 percent. The three Pacific Coast states of Washington, California, and Oregon all showed increases over a year ago, with their rankings in the order named. Firms in Washington reported an increase of 6 percent, California 5 percent, and Oregon 4.5 percent.

Debris Cleared From City Streets To Permit Nazi Party To Pass

Strictly guarded every step of the way, Hitler took time to confer with the commanding officers who led the onslaught against Warsaw and who still have the city under military control.

He crossed the Vistula river and looked at the suburb of Praga, where some of the heaviest fighting took place, but it was considered doubtful that he would go fifty miles further eastward to inspect the new Russian line formed there.

Meanwhile, as speculation ran high over the possible tenor of Hitler's speech, international difficulties over the rights of neutral shipping occupied attention in Berlin.

Up to Britain?

Germany, while advising neutrals to avoid zigzag courses, the use of convoys, the shielding of lights and other measures laying their vessels open to suspicion, made clear that her high seas activities would be governed by those of England.

In other words, it will be a case of "tit for tat." Germany will not search food-laden ships for contraband if Britain does not search them. Germany's real intention is to do all in her power to blockade England to the same extent as Britain blockades Germany.

There were indications in Berlin today that British troops have now taken up a number of "minor positions" in the West. Germans at one Rhine river bridge found a message that had been rolled into a ball and bowled across the bridge from France. It read:

"You can fire on pill boxes 6 and 7. The British are there."

Hitler will return to Berlin tonight.

Writer Sees Early Title For New Yorkers In Series Play

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 — Monte Pearson, a slender right-hander with more stuff on the ball than any pitcher on either of the contending teams, was expected to beat the Cincinnati Reds in the second game of the World Series today and with that move the New York Yankees right to the threshold of their fourth straight triumph in the so-called fall classic. Quite within reason there seemed to be no doubt that Pearson would get the decision over Bucky Walters, the Reds' pitching choice, and even less doubt by this time as to ultimate outcome of the series.

As a result of yesterday's opening victory by 2 to 1 for Red Ruffing, with a sore arm, over Paul Derringer, who had everything except a triumph at the finish, babbling was renewed and went on unabated on the possibility of a Yankee clean sweep. Even if the Reds beat Pearson to square it at one-all, the Yanks still will remain favorites at an increasingly long price.

Must Lose At Home

When the Reds failed yesterday to get more than four hits off Ruffing, whose arm misery prevented his doing any curving to speak of, and couldn't win the ball game behind their best pitcher, the conjecture which caused some to predict a Yankee defeat in the series immediately was dispelled. By this time — in the light of what has gone before — it seems inevitable that the Reds must lose, probably on their home grounds, where the third, fourth and fifth games are scheduled for Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

As far as today's encounter is concerned, Pearson has the Yankees behind him. That may and probably will prove of considerable benefit. Moreover, when he is right he is terrific, as he was in the third game of last year's World Series, when he held the Chicago Cubs to five hits and one earned run and struck out nine.

Barring further mishaps, Tackle Charley Maag was the only Buck destined to be on the inactive list during the inaugural tussle. Fullback Jimmy Langhurst, who has been in the hospital with a leg infection, was fully recovered and anxious for a chance at the highly touted Missouri eleven.

Reversing usual procedure, Schmidt yesterday eliminated scrimmage sessions, and game indications that he would order a heavy workout for today.

CUBS WIN OVER WHITE SOX IN EXTRA INNINGS

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 — The honor of the National League was upheld at least for the time being today by Chicago's Cubs, who last night hung a 10 to 9 defeat on the Chicago White Sox in the first game of the teams' 22nd series for the city baseball title.

They added to the evidence of their greatness yesterday in a pitching duel that held a gathering of 58,541 pretty close to spellbound, except when they were cheering Derringer and, as it turned out, he was the wrong man.

Rookie Charley Keller, Joe Gordon, Bill Dickey and Ruffing were the men who earned the applause in the final summing up.

Perhaps Coach Art Fletcher, of the Yanks, should be included, too. While the Yanks made only six hits off Derringer, and seven of them struck out, those six hits were all they needed and that is a sufficiency here or in the Sally League.

Gordon fielded brilliantly around second and, with Frankie Crosetti at short and Babe Dahlgren at first, gave Ruffing three double plays. On the offensive, Gordon singed in the fifth, and scored all the way from first base on Dahlgren's double, this being accomplished through Fletcher's

Ohio U. Plans to Fete Don Peden

DON PEDEN
—OHIO UNIVERSITY—

ATHENS, Oct. 5 — When Ohio University and Western Reserve meet at Ohio stadium this Saturday before a record high school day crowd, Don Peden's Bobcats hope to hit the comeback trail with an upset victory.

The mighty Reserve Redcats bring a star studded squad to Athens to meet Don Peden's "Mystery eleven" in what promises to be the feature game on state college gridirons. Although the Bobcats dropped their two opening contests to Western Kentucky State and Butler, the Bobcat sophomores have picked up valuable experience despite the losses. Although the Reserve Redcats are heavy favorites, the Bobcats are really gunning for this game for a lot of reasons.

In Don Peden's fifteen seasons as head coach of Ohio University he has never seen his team lose more than two games in a row and he has never had a losing season. The 1939 Bobcats are not willing to go down in history as the first Peden team to lose three in a row.

A heavy factor on the side of a Bobcat upset will be the coaching magic of Don Peden, Bobcat mentor, who is known as "the little magician" because of his tricky gridiron stunts and his habit of bringing underdog Bobcat teams to upset victories over such teams as Illinois, Indiana, and Navy. When Peden sends a team on the field you are assured of one thing, the opposition will have to play its best to win.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5 — "We're not licked yet!"

That was the unanimous attitude of Cincinnati's rabid baseball fans today following the heart-breaking 2 to 1 defeat administered "Our Reds" by the New York Yankees in the initial World Series Game.

Gloom there was in plenty. But it was gloom tempered by the conviction that one ball game does not decide a World Series — that the Reds would come through.

"We've still got Walters and Thompson," the fans argued. "Who have the Yankees got?"

And they naively pointed to the fact that the Reds got the first hit . . . the first walk . . . the first stolen base . . . the first run . . . did everything, in fact, except win the ball game.

"Watch us go today!"

The optimistic Redleg fans continued to stand in line to purchase standing room — at $3.45 a stand — to the Cincinnati games of the series. Already more than half of the available 4,500 such accommodations are gone.

MINOR INJURIES TROUBLE TIGERS IN M'CLAIN DRILL

Brown, Staley In None Too Good Condition; Locals Ready For Contest

Minor bumps and bruises and other ailments bobbed up Thursday to harass Coach Roy Black's varsity squadmen as they drilled for their Friday night booster contest with Greenfield's McClain High School aggregation.

Lou Brown, varsity center, has an "undeveloped" boil on his wrist that promises to provide plenty of unpleasant moments for the scrappy lineman. Joe Staley, who has taken over a guard position in the last 10 days, pulled a back muscle when wrestling with another teammate. He watched Wednesday's drill from the bench.

Paul Jackson, end, was not at Wednesday's practice. Bob Bowsher, fullback and passer extraordinary, is nursing a leg bruise received in the Lancaster game. Marvin Jenkins, left halfback, is limping with a leg bump.

BUT when the chips are down, it is a safe bet that almost all the Tiger varsity men will be on hand and raring to go.

This Greenfield game has done something to the squad. The team that looked like a batter against Holy Rosary, then suffered a big letdown in the next week's play, and developed into a weak sister against Lancaster has become more determined and has gone about its chores with more intent of purpose this week. This means trouble for Greenfield, because a fighting Tiger team can stop the McClain youngsters and add a couple of touchdowns on its own accord.

Lineup About Set

Coach Black is expected to use Walters and Orr at the ends, Russ Linton and John Sabine or Hulse Hays at the tackles, Warner and Staley at the guards, Brown at center — if the boil is not too painful — Harold Smith at quarter, Bowsher at full and Eby and Jenkins at the halves.

The guard spots are anything but definite. Warner was brilliant at times in the Lancaster game, but he may have to take over the center job if Brown is unable to go. Staley's back alliment may be too serious to permit him much competition. In that case the guard spots would be taken over by Harden, Shea, Martin or Hays.

The Tigers are looking for almost any kind of an attack from Greenfield, although it is certain to be centered around Eldon Newland, the outstanding man in the backfield. Greenfield sports writers look for the Tigers to be easy in face of the 75-6 defeat plastered on the Red and Black last year on the McClain field.

BUT, they may be surprised if our Tigers will even approach the kind of game they are capable of playing. A hard charging line with a pair of alert ends can smother Mr. Newland and anyone else who tries to gain ground for Greenfield.

Poor Goodman sits in a corner . . . downcast . . . not saying a word . . . none of the Reds has much to say . . . we relay high praise from the Yanks to Derringer . . . but the big fellow is disconsolate . . . "Great game," he repeats . . . "What was great about it? We lost didn't we and that's all that counts . . ."

McKeechnie isn't sure whether he'll keep Berger and his infected foot in the second game but predicts Bucky Walters will show the Yanks another game like Derringer showed them . . .

McCarthy Lauds Coach; McKechnie Blames Goody

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 — Two clubhouses . . . Yanks and Reds . . . joy versus gloom . . . game over, Yanks come tearing in . . . laughing, singing . . . soon a dozen are under the showers . . . all warbling . . . with Tommy Henrich turning on a nice tenor . . . and plenty of water . . .

Charley Ruffing . . . sitting quietly in front of locker . . . and showing stone bruise on left hand . . . "Bill Dickey had more stuff out than I had," he explains the bruise . . . "yeh, I think the Reds have more power than the Cubs had last year . . . my arm was sore so I pulled the string on my fast one a lot . . . I think Monte (Pearson) will take them in the second game . . ."

Lou Gehrig comes over . . . says nothing but shakes hands with Dickey . . . Dickey says "Thanks, Lou," . . . just as if Lou had made a long speech . . .

Dickey says his game-winning single was made off a perfect pitch just on the inside corner . . . all the Yanks loud in their praise of Paul Derringer . . . Red Ruff's sum total is all up . . . "He's the best pitcher we ever saw in a World Series . . . he doesn't give you any fast ones to hit . . ."

Fletcher Praised

Joe McCarthy, sitting off in his cubby hole of an office pulls a nifty . . . "Best play of the game?" he echoes a query . . . "That's easy . . . it was Fletcher (Art Fletcher, Yankee third base coach) sending Gordon in with that first run . . ."

That, the Yanks all say, was one of the two plays that meant the ball game . . . Gordon on first, and Dahlgren doubles to left . . . Berger, a weak thrower, makes a good but weak return to second base . . . the normal play . . . Gordon rounds third and tears for the plate . . . Frey's relay is too high and to one side and Gordon slides under Lombardi . . . Gordon admits a perfect peg would have had him . . .

Then the ninth . . . one down . . . and young Charley Keller . . .

hits a terrific liner to right center . . . Craft and Goodman both go after it . . . Goodman takes his eye off the ball for a minute as it nears the bleachers . . . then makes a left split-second lunge for it . . . and it drops safely . . . for an official triple . . . comes Dickey's hit after DiMaggio is purposely passed and the game is over . . .

Goodman at Fault

But over in the Reds' dressing room . . . where you could cut the gloom with a knife . . . Manager Bill McKeechnie says . . . "Triple, hell . . . that ball should have been caught . . . 'LITTLE SERIES' AT THREE EACH

Deciding Contest Booked For Rochester Field Thursday Eve

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 5 — The deciding game of the "Little World Series" between the Rochester Red Wings of the International League and the Louisville Colonels of the American Association is scheduled for tonight with the result a toss-up guess.

The Wings squared the series' at 3-all by winning last night 9 to 5. The Wings pounded Bud Parmalee and Flowers for seven runs in the third inning.

COUNCIL REFUSES TO ADD MOTORCYCLE PATROLMAN TO CITY POLICE FORCE

THREE BALLOTS ENOUGH TO HALT EMERGENCY ACT

Four Members In Favor Of Additional Safety For Circleville

NEUDING'S VOTE FLAYED

Reid Charges Solon Not Resident Of Ward That He Represents

An ordinance for addition of a motorcycle patrolman to the Circleville police department was voted down Wednesday in council for a second time.

Four councilmen voted for the ordinance. Three opposed it. Since the ordinance provided for the addition of the patrolman on October 15 and was listed as an emergency measure it required a two thirds vote.

The ordinance was favored by Councilmen Julius Helwagen, Frank Lynch, Donald Mason and William Reid. It was opposed by Councilmen Ben Gordon, Clarence Helvering and John Neuding.

The ordinance had been given three readings prior to Wednesday night. When given its third reading at the last regular session of council it was referred to a committee for amendments. These amendments provided the patrolman be on daytime duty and that he patrol the streets on a motorcycle or in a motorcar. The original ordinance did not list the daytime or motorcar angles. Salary of the patrolman was to be $110 a month.

The ordinance was given a reading as amended Wednesday night. Councilman Ben Gordon suggested that it be delayed until spring. He explained he did not believe the legislation was so necessary at this season of the year. Councilman Frank Lynch said he believed the legislation had been delayed long enough. He contended "we are now entering the seasons of the greatest traffic hazards. Every day we find evidence of the need of a motorcycle patrolman," he said. "I made a mistake when I voted against the ordinance when it was up before."

"I believe if we check other towns we will find we have ample police protection," Councilman Clarence Helvering stated.

After the ordinance was read John C. Goeller, president of council, said it was lost due to failure to receive a two-thirds vote.

The vote on the ordinance brought a new problem before council. Councilman William M. Reid, chairman of the ordinance committee, said he did not believe the vote of John Neuding, Third Ward councilman, should be counted. He charged Mr. Neuding had removed from the Third Ward.

"I still maintain a residence there and vote in the Third Ward," Mr. Neuding replied. "Where a man votes is considered his place of residence."

"Just because a certain vote doesn't suit you can't throw him out of council," President Goeller added. There was considerable discussion among councilmen on the issue. On motion of Councilman Donald Mason the issue was referred to Carl C. Leist, city solicitor.

"I would not endeavor to answer any questions tonight," Mr. Leist said. "It entails some pretty serious problems in council. It is a question deserving a lot of serious consideration and would reflect on a lot of actions of council."

ALLEY PAVING WORK GOES ON

Council Authorizes Acting Service Director To Continue Work

Leonard Morgan, acting service director, was authorized by council Wednesday evening to continue the alley paving work in the downtown district.

Mr. Morgan was instructed to pave another section of the alley between Main and Pinckney Streets from the rear of the New American Hotel to the Pickaway Motor Sales. Next on the program would be the alley from Main Street to Pinckney Street between the Pickaway Motor Sales and the Seitz building. Another alley listed for improvement is the one extending from Court Street at Stone's Grill to the intersection of the first alley east of Court Street between Main and Franklin Streets.

Arrangements were being worked out Thursday to start the alley improvements next Monday.

MINISTERS TO SPONSOR ADDRESS BY TRAVELER

The Circleville Ministerial Association is sponsoring a lecture Monday at 7:45 p. m. in the First Methodist Church by the Rev. Ralph E. Baney, author, lecturer and world traveler. The Rev. Mr. Baney will speak on "Behind the Scenes in Nazi Germany" and "Every Day Life in the Holy Land".

He has numerous pictures taken in Germany despite rigid censorship and smuggled out of the Nazi land.

The ministerial association urges that a large crowd attend the lecture which the pastors believe will be one of the most interesting heard in Circleville in a long while.

The Rev. Mr. Baney has traveled in 38 countries and has taken 5,000 pictures.

BUTLER COUNTIAN TO DIE IN PRISON OCTOBER 25

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—Denying his appeal, the state supreme court today determined the fate of Lafe Williams, 46-year-old Butler County slayer, and decreed that he should die in the Ohio penitentiary electric chair on Oct. 25.

Williams was convicted of the July 30, 1938 murder of Henry Graham, a farmer and Williams' employer. Graham was robbed and beaten to death in his own home.

In reprimanding the death sentence, the high tribunal affirmed decisions of a common pleas court and the court of appeals.

The earth, according to an astronomer, eventually will either freeze solid, explode, or be smashed to bits colliding with another star. Oh, we get a choice, do we?

GOLFERS HIT BY STRAY BALLS CANNOT COLLECT

COLUMBUS, Oct. 5—Golfers who might get hit by a stray ball found today that they had no recourse in the state supreme court.

The high court turned down the appeal of Herbert Mintz, Cleveland, who sought personal damages for the loss of an eye. Mintz was struck by a ball while playing in Cleveland on Martin Hugo's public golf course.
